PITTSBURGH

Opened in 1989 by attorneys still practicing in the office today, the Pittsburgh Office of Jones Day offers clients a full range of legal services with approximately 60 lawyers advising and representing a wide range of clients on a host of issues that involve litigation, transactions, the environment, labor, appeals, and intellectual property. Understanding that the goal of the lawyer should be to allow clients to dedicate time and resources to business, our attorneys utilize the tremendous resources of an international law firm to deliver world-class representation to a local, regional, national, and international client base. Now entering our third decade, the Pittsburgh Office blends the advantages of a worldwide legal presence with the immediacy only a local firm can offer.

The Pittsburgh Office counts among our members internationally respected attorneys who practice in the fields of litigation, product liability law, insurance, aviation, employment class actions, labor relations, environmental law, intellectual property, and transactional law. We have an extensive roster of experienced trial attorneys who try cases and argue appeals before scores of state and federal courts, including the United States Supreme Court. The Business and Tort Litigation Practice tries cases on the cutting edge of the law and has obtained landmark verdicts in matters of national importance. The transactional practice includes work in private equity, mergers and acquisitions, and corporate counseling for an international client base ranging from start-up ventures to Fortune 500 companies. The lawyers of the Labor & Employment Practice have been involved in some of the highest-profile labor negotiations and employment class actions in the country. On a daily basis, our Pittsburgh lawyers work closely with attorneys in other Jones Day offices around the world to deliver a unified experience to clients with transactions or litigation in multiple jurisdictions with national and international components. The office acts as a vibrant portal to the Jones Day One Firm Worldwide experience, allowing clients to engage not just the lawyers resident in Pittsburgh, but the 2,400 Jones Day attorneys across the globe.

For nearly two decades, the attorneys of the Pittsburgh Office have been committed to the rebirth of Pittsburgh as a commercial and civic center. Many of our lawyers serve on non-profit boards, support worthy charitable causes, lend their talents to the arts, and actively participate in civic and charitable projects and activities. The office has a very engaged pro bono program and recently shared honors as pro bono law firm of the year for Allegheny County. The central downtown location of the office in the BNY Mellon building makes it easy for our attorneys to promote the vibrant arts community, work closely with state and federal officials on matters of public interest, and provide legal services—and sometimes a little elbow grease—to local charities. While our clients come first, we believe that being a member of the legal profession includes the obligation to give back to the community that has supported us for so long.
