ENERGY PRACTICE

Our Energy Practice delivers the combined legal experience of a multidisciplinary team of lawyers, together with an in-depth understanding of the commercial and technical aspects of the energy industry, to bring transactions, regulatory proceedings, and disputes to successful completion. Our lawyers understand both the traditional principles and the evolving trends that apply to established and emerging energy industry participants, which allows us to help our clients stay in front of (rather than just react to) the changes, large and small, that face the industry.

We advise the full spectrum of energy-related clients: governments and national energy companies; electric and gas independents and utilities; oil, gas, and mineral producers; pipeline, processing, and distribution companies; electric transmission companies; developers and owners of wind power, solar power and other renewable energy sources; BTU conversion developers; service, construction, engineering, and environmental firms; companies trading electricity, natural gas, financial instruments, and emissions; developers of products for the smart grid; storage and fuel cell developers; and financial institutions providing capital and related services to these industries. Our Energy Practice lawyers offer services along the entire energy supply chain, wherever in the world our clients' interests take them including:

- Project structuring, development, and operation.
- Upstream, midstream, and downstream oil and gas, including LNG and shipping.
- Power generation, transmission, distribution, trading, and supply.
- Corporate, project, and structured financing.
- Private equity and venture capital financing.
- Mergers, acquisitions, divestments, and joint ventures.
- Market restructuring, deregulation, and privatization.
- Construction and operations contracting.

- Domestic and international dispute resolution.
- Regulatory counseling.
- SEC, FERC, and other regulatory compliance.
- Local, national, and cross-border tax issues.
