INSURANCE RECOVERY

At Jones Day, we are committed to maximizing the value of our clients' insurance assets. This is reflected both in our record of substantial recoveries in insurance disputes and in our approach to insurance counseling. We have recovered billions of dollars for our policyholder clients, and we have advised policyholders on obtaining or preserving maximum coverage in insurance program placements; policy manuscripting; and acquisitions, divestitures, reorganizations/restructurings, and other significant transactions.

Our Insurance Recovery Practice comprises more than a dozen partners worldwide whose practices are dedicated to representing insurance policyholders in disputes and counseling, and dozens more Trial Practice attorneys with substantial experience and success in litigating and arbitrating insurance matters. Jones Day Insurance Recovery attorneys have experience in virtually every type of insurance dispute; we have handled hundreds of matters in jurisdictions throughout the United States, in London and Bermuda, and elsewhere throughout the world, from our more than 30 integrated global locations. We have set key policyholder precedent in numerous reported court decisions.

Our coverage experience has been gained from a vast array of underlying claims, exposures, and circumstances. These range from traditional long-tail asbestos, environmental, and legacy toxic tort liabilities to internet privacy, security, and data breach liabilities. We have obtained coverage for construction, infrastructure, and real estate liabilities and losses; hurricane, flood, fire, and other natural disaster losses; financial, fiduciary, securities fraud, crime, and surety bond claims and losses; ERISA and employee benefit and health plan exposures; product liability claims and product recalls; patent, copyright, and trademark infringement claims; software and intellectual property license breaches; consumer class actions; and many others. We have acquired in-depth knowledge of the issues that arise under traditional property/casualty and financial lines coverage forms, as well as those arising under more specialized and industry-focused forms.

Jones Day attorneys represent all types of entities and industries in insurance matters, from Fortune 500 corporations such as Toyota to small, venture-funded emerging companies like Tesla Motors. A representative list of our clients includes Adobe Systems, Bridgestone/Firestone, Charles Schwab & Co., Chevron, Cooper Industries, Dell Computer, Goodyear, IBM, Kaiser Permanente, Macy's, Motorola, Occidental Petroleum, PepsiCo, Sherwin-Williams, and Starwood. With the breadth and depth of our experience and our global presence as One Firm Worldwide, Jones Day is well positioned to assist almost any business policyholder facing a coverage issue or problem.

No other firm can offer the litigation resources and experience Jones Day brings to insurance recovery matters. Jones Day attorneys have successfully tried significant insurance coverage matters, obtained seminal victories on the interpretation of standard policy provisions, and structured innovative and very substantial settlements. We have extensive experience with the complex issues that often accompany insurance company insolvencies and their rehabilitation. Jones Day has developed alternative dispute resolution methods and creative settlement solutions that have substantially reduced our clients' dispute resolution costs.

Although we are proud of our success in resolving disputes for our clients against insurance companies, we are equally proud of our success in preventing such disputes from arising. We have achieved this through effective counseling on insurance policy/program placement; policy manuscripting; and insurance/indemnity issues in major corporate transactions, restructurings/workouts, contracts, and licenses. We advise clients on the placement of insurance for even the most difficult risks under traditional property/casualty and financial lines (frequently complex D&O placements) and under specialized forms. We are in frequent contact and work closely with other insurance professionals and organizations, and we routinely access a wide variety of insurance databases and information resources. Accordingly, we keep abreast of, and often anticipate, developments in markets, policy forms, and endorsements affecting our clients. We also understand and advise our clients on the complex risk transfer and insurance issues that often accompany major corporate transactions and events, including mergers, acquisitions, divestitures, reorganizations, and restructurings.
