Business speaker program launches in January

The Verizon Power Lunch Speaker Series aims to motivate and inspire companies in the Coachella Valley.

By Holly O'Dell

As vice president and general manager of CBS 2, Bill Evans regularly looks for opportunities to motivate and train the television station's employees. But finding such ongoing prospects for them in the desert proved to be a challenge. Although the cities of Rancho Mirage and Indian Wells host speaker series, Evans soon realized that no one in the Coachella Valley offered a continuous program geared specifically toward business.

"I looked at that and thought, 'Here's a great opportunity to accomplish the things I want to do for our company and open it to other companies,'" Evans says. "People are always looking for a way to gain insight, training and knowledge and to be inspired and motivated."

As a result, Evans—with the help of CBS 2, title sponsor Verizon and presenting sponsors Pacific Western Bank and law firm Best Best & Krieger LLP—created the Verizon Power Lunch Speaker Series, which features five speakers from January through May at the Renaissance Esmeralda Resort in Indian Wells.

With an eye toward variety, Evans researched an array of engaging speakers whom he thought would bring the most value to desert business people. "My goal was to put together a very dynamic series using people I could get to come together to put on this kind of program," he says. "Every one of these speakers speaks on a different subject that revolves around business."

The series launches January 31 with Afterburner, a group of former U.S. military fighter pilots who bring the message of flawless execution for the work environment. The high-energy group is well known throughout the country—they train more than 100 of the Fortune 500 companies, have been listed twice on Inc. Magazine's 500 list of fastest-growing companies and are regularly featured in business media, including CNN, CNBC, The Wall Street Journal and Business Week.

Evans feels that Afterburner will set the tone for the entire luncheon series. "They are so phenomenal, so powerful, that people will just walk away from there blown away and charged up to fine tune their companies," he says.

Additional speakers will address topics such as strategic planning for business leaders, creatively doing more with less, and improving customer service. (For information on the additional speakers, see sidebar.)

Evans, who estimates 250 to 350 business-people will attend each luncheon, believes that the benefits of the speaker series will be twofold. "I hope people will walk away with things they can use in their daily business lives—maybe an idea, an attitude adjustment, or a whole concept of ideas," Evans says. "It's also going to be a great networking experience."

Knowing what his own employees seek from business speakers or training opportunities, Evans believes that the speaker series will quickly make a mark on businesses valley-wide. "Whether they're salespeople or managers, our staff can all use something that will help motivate them or give them some insight that they might not get anywhere else," he says.

Profiles and video clips of each speaker are available at cbstv2.com. Tickets are also available online and cost $125 for individuals and $5,000 for a table of 10 for each luncheon.

Governor Schwarzenegger Calls Economic Burden of Uninsured a "Hidden Tax" on All Californians

New America Foundation joins Governor with new analysis of economic cost to State

Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger, who has stated that he is committed to finding common-sense solutions to fix California's broken health care system, recently toured California Hospital Medical Center to get a first-hand look at the financial burden the uninsured place upon consumers with insurance. In California, 6.5 million people, more than any other state, have no medical insurance for all or part of the year.

At a press conference following the tour, the New America Foundation released a white paper that estimates the average family pays about $1,186 a year in health insurance premiums to cover the uninsured.

"The millions of Californians without health care have created hidden tax on every person in this state. Working families are paying more and more of their hard-earned dollars for their health care. They pay higher insurance premiums, deductibles, co-pays and they're left with higher out-of-pocket expenses," said Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger. "This is unfair to all those families who pay health insurance for themselves, and it is a terrible drain on our economy. We simply cannot continue. As we prepare for a year focused on getting Californians the health care they need, everything must be up for debate. Tackling the problem of the uninsured is not only about expanding coverage, it's about addressing this hidden tax on healthcare that Californians can no longer afford. I know if we work together, we can make health care more affordable, accessible and equitable."

First opened in 1887, California Hospital Medical Center was renovated in 1986 to provide care to 35,000 patients a year. However, the hospital treats about 55,000 people a year, many of whom are uninsured, and federal law requires emergency rooms turn no one away. According to the hospital, more than $60 million in hospital bills are unpaid each year.

The National Institute of Medicine estimates that the United States spends nearly $100 billion a year to provide health services to the uninsured, with costs passed on to the rest of the population. For a family with insurance through an employer, the amount they paid in 2006 increased by 9 percent, to $2,824, more than twice the rate of inflation, according to the California HealthCare Foundation. Employers' share increased to $9,036. For employees working in small companies, the numbers are worse. Twenty five percent of those employees saw their premiums increase more than 15 percent.

In July, Governor Schwarzenegger convened a groundbreaking Summit on Health Care Affordability. Experts from various fields, such as academics, government, business, health care and labor, seriously discussed California's health care cost and coverage challenges. In addition, the Governor has made children's coverage a priority, resulting in nearly a quarter million additional children covered by the state's Medi-Cal and Healthy Families programs. Governor Schwarzenegger this year also signed legislation to provide discounts on prescription drugs of up to 60 percent for our neediest citizens and to help expand school-based health centers, making medical treatment more accessible to our children. This year, the Governor also signed an executive order to expand the use of health information technology, which will help lower healthcare costs in California.

The Governor has made a commitment to make health care reform the center of attention when the Legislature reconvenes in January.

Dale Campbell, CPA

Dale Campbell, CPA, has been named Controller of T. D. Desert Development, a nationwide developer of luxury golf communities which is headquartered in La Quinta, CA. Campbell is responsible for supervising accounting operations for the firm's residential communities in California, Florida and Alabama and brings more than 13 years of accounting and financial management to his new position.

"Dale brings a very well-rounded accounting background to his work with T. D. Desert Development ranging from private corporate accounting to public auditing. His knowledge and experience is a significant asset to our company and we are fortunate to have him as a fiscal leader on our team," stated T.D. Desert Development President Grady Sparks.

Prior to joining T. D. Desert Development, Campbell was Director of Financial Reporting for KSL Recreational Corporation in La Quinta where he worked for nearly six years. Before that he served as Corporate Assistant Treasurer for United States Filter Corporation for four years. He began his accounting career with one of the top five accounting firms in the nation – KPMG at their Costa Mesa, CA office, where he worked as a Senior Auditor for three years.

A native of Taylor, Michigan, a suburb of Detroit, Campbell moved to California in 1981. He worked for Ralph's Grocery Store at several Southern California locations holding various management positions for 10 years before entering the accounting field.

Campbell earned his Bachelor's degree in Business Administration from California State University at San Bernardino.

CALDER NAMED BRANCH MANAGER AT DESERT COMMERCIAL BANK

Robin Calder

Desert Commercial Bank has tabbed Robin Calder to manage its Palm Desert branch. He will serve as Vice President/Branch Manager, focusing his efforts on business development and overseeing day-to-day operations within the branch.

Mr. Calder brings extensive local knowledge to his new post. He spent over a decade in Palm Springs banking circles, serving in managerial positions at Home Savings and, later, Wells Fargo. His professional background also includes tenure at Washington Mutual Bank's Palm Desert branch, where he was Vice President/Manager.

Desert Commercial Bank President and CEO R. Albert "Al" Roensch said Mr. Calder's knowledge of the desert's business community, combined with his network of professional contacts, made him a natural choice for the position. Mr. Calder made his decision to join the rapidly growing bank based on its reputation for quality and endorsements from former colleagues.

The long-time desert resident most recently held the title of Branch Manager for Wells Fargo in San Bernardino, guiding the office to the top spot within the Inland Empire region, in terms of overall financial performance. There, he supervised a staff of 25 people, including a large business development group.

Mr. Calder's personal ties to the Coachella Valley date back to the late 1960's, when his family owned the Roadrunner Hotel and its still-famous nightspot, The Nest, in Indian Wells. He graduated from Indio High, and went on to earn business and law degrees from USC and the University of West Los Angeles, respectively.

The third-generation banker maintains an active role in community affairs across the region. In addition to being a former board member of the United Way of Riverside County and Banning Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Calder is an advisor for Everest College and deacon for Cabazon Community Church.

DESERT COMMERCIAL BANK ASSET AND DEPOSIT GROWTH TOPS AVERAGES OF ALL CALIFORNIA PEERS

The Irvine-based investment bank Carpenter & Company ranks Desert Commercial Bank's (OTCBB:dcbe) asset and deposit growth in the top quartile of the class among the 26 California banks formed in 2005. The peer data reflects an analysis of financial performance through the third quarter of 2006.

Carpenter & Company shared the findings following the recent DeNovo Bank Conference in Newport Beach, co-sponsored with the Western Independent Bankers Association.

Desert Commercial Bank's asset growth eclipsed the statewide average by more than 47%, with total assets standing at $112,166,000, as compared to an average of $76,146,000 for other California DeNovo institutions that started in 2005. Total loans topped the state average for 2005 DeNovo institutions by 12%, with more than $57 million in loans recorded during the bank's first 15 months of existence.

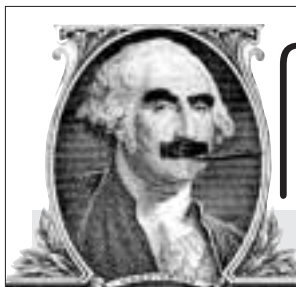

R. Albert "Al" Roensch

Deposit growth at Desert Commercial Bank, which maintains full-service branches in Palm Desert and El Centro, also outpaced averages for all California and U.S. banks chartered in 2005. The Bank attracted a total of $89,902,000 in deposits from its customer base. The number shattered the California average by 56.4%, while beating the national average by 2.2%.

Make sure the selling is over
Before you decide to go "long".

Fears of missing out are everywhere

CATHEDRAL CITY LOOKS TO FILL VACANCIES ON THREE COMMISSIONS

There are vacancies on three Cathedral City commissions: the Board of Appeals, the Mobile home Fair Practices Commission and the new Financial Advisory Committee.

The Cathedral City Board of Appeals hears appeals to determine the suitability of requested uses of alternate materials and methods of construction. There is currently 1 vacancy on the 5 member board which the City seeks to fill. The Board meets on an as needed basis, with members serving a four-year term. Members must have training and experience in building construction.

The Mobile home Fair Practices Commission hears petitions for hardship rental increases from Mobile home Park owners in parks governed by Ordinance 48, which regulates mobile home park rents. The Commission also hears petitions from renters and interprets rules and regulations found in the Ordinance. There are 3 vacancies on this 5 member commission. Members must be Cathedral City residents who are not mobile home owners, mobile home park tenants, or mobile home park owners. The Commission meets on an as needed basis.

In September 2006, the City Council approved the formation of a Finance Oversight Committee to provide non-binding advisory recommendations to the City Council regarding either the proceeds of the ? of 1% Transactions and Use Tax, put on the ballot as Measure Q, if it passed, or the anticipated budget shortfalls if it did not. Measure Q did not pass and the committee will meet to advise the City on how to address any shortfalls. The specific details of the activities of the 5-member committee are still being formalized. Members will serve two-year terms. In the inaugural year of the committee, two members will serve one-year terms, to stagger term expirations. The Committee will meet on a periodic basis.

To apply for any of these positions, pick up an application at the City Clerk's Office at City Hall or download an application form at: <http://www.cathedralcity.gov/CityClerk/cityclerk.htm>. Applicants for the Board of Appeals must be at least 18 years old and be a resident of Cathedral City.

FIVE CANDIDATES SEEK OPEN SEAT ON DESERT HOT SPRINGS CITY COUNCIL

A field of City Council candidates that have never held elected office before have filed the necessary paperwork to qualify for a special election to be held on March 6, 2007. The candidates seeking election to the Council are Karl Baker, Bobby Bentley, Scott Matas, Ted Mayrhofen and Adam Sanchez. Among the group, Baker, Sanchez and Matas sit as appointed members of city boards and/or have been appointed to represent the city on outside panels.

Adam Sanchez is currently the vice chairman of the Planning Commission and Scott Matas is the chairman of the city's Public Safety Commission. Karl Baker represents the city as a board member of the Coachella Valley Mosquito and Vector Control District. Mayrhofen ran unsuccessfully for mayor during the 2005 election. Bentley also ran for a City Council position in that same election and lost.

The Council seat up for grabs is currently held by Dot Reed, who was appointed to replace the late Gary Bosworth, former mayor pro tem who died last summer. Desert Hot Springs voters also will have the opportunity, on the same ballot, to vote on a measure that would create a rotating mayor position with a term of four years.

ENERGY PLAN GAINS FUNDING

The city of Palm Desert received a unanimous vote by the California Public Utilities Commission approving $18 million in conservation funds that they and Southern California Edison will provide in rebates earmarked for residents that upgrade older, less efficient air conditioning systems. The five-year plan, designed to cut citywide energy usage by up to 30 percent also allows for rebates for retrofitting existing buildings.

The Palm Desert City Council also voted to approve an ordinance requiring all new buildings in the city to be 10 percent to 15 percent more energy efficient than state standards. Details of the full program will be finalized in the coming weeks.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS NAMES NEW DIRECTOR FOR RIVERSIDE COUNTY HEALTH AGENCY, PUBLIC HEALTH

The Riverside County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday appointed Dr. Eric K. Frykman as the county's Community Health Agency director and public health officer. Frykman is interim public health director/public health officer and chief public health medical officer for the San Bernardino County Department of Public Health and will assume his duties in Riverside County on Feb. 12.

He will replace Dr. Gary Feldman, who has been public health officer in Riverside County since July 1997, and is retiring.

"We are fortunate and excited to have someone with Dr. Frykman's reputation come aboard to continue Dr. Feldman's outstanding work," said Board of Supervisors Chairman Bob Buster. "In an age when pandemic flu and other potential crises are serious concerns, this has become one of the most important health positions in the state."

Frykman obtained his Bachelor of Science degree in bio-chemistry from Loma Linda University Medical Center in 1992; his doctor of medicine degree from Loma Linda in 1996; a master's degree in public health, with an emphasis in international health in 1999 from Loma Linda; and a master's degree in business administration from Claremont Graduate University in 2004. Frykman is board certified in public health and general preventive medicine by the American Board of Preventive Medicine.

"I'm excited about the opportunity to carry on Dr. Feldman's legacy—the pursuit of community health excellence," Frykman said. "I also look forward to working with the consummate professionals in Riverside County."

GARCIA INTRODUCES LEGISLATION TO BAN USE OF TRANS FAT

On December 15, Assemblywoman Bonnie Garcia (R-Cathedral City), introduced Assembly Bill 93 which bans the use of partially hydrogenated oils - trans fats - in restaurants and other food service establishments in California.

Garcia met today in New York with the city's Health Commissioner's Office and the staff behind the city's recent approved ban on trans fats in area restaurants. The officials provided insight into the need for the ban and how it could apply in California.

Trans fats are created by adding hydrogen to liquid oil, or hydrogenation. This process makes the oil more solid and extends its shelf life. Unfortunately, these trans fats increase the risk of heart disease and stroke by increasing levels of so called "bad" cholesterol, known as LDL, and reducing levels of "good," or HDL, cholesterol.

"As part of our efforts to address obesity, diabetes and heart disease, it's time California look at the impact trans fats have on our lives," said Garcia.

"With this bill as a starting point, we'll be able to bring all of the interested groups together to discuss how best to implement this legislation and improve the health of Californians."

Among the restaurants that have already committed to eliminating the use of trans fat are Red Lobster, Olive Garden, Wendy's, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Taco Bell, Denny's, and Panera Bread Co.

Local Firm Takes Lead, New Brand as Total Outdoor Experience Provider

The Teserra founding partners (black shirts) and staff get together prior to the company's recent re-branding ceremony.

Coachella Valley-based California Pools and Spas recently announced that it is changing its name to Teserra to more accurately define its full complement of product and service offerings – from pools and spas to landscaping design and installation to fire pits and outdoor kitchens and flooring. The company serves Coachella Valley and other Southern California homeowners predominantly through its relationships with some of the region's top homebuilders.

"With more than 21 years' continuous business in the Coachella Valley, we've earned a strong reputation for our beautiful designs, attention to detail and high-quality service," says Jim Harebottle, president and CEO of Teserra. "As we've grown our business, we needed a brand that reflected the total outdoor experience we provide our clients. Teserra is beautiful pools and spas, and more. It reflects a total outdoor experience."

Harebottle notes that the company has grown its revenues an average of 92% per year since 1999, taking advantage of a massive growth market that has welcomed more than 100,000 new permanent residents and roughly 25,000 part-time residents during the same time period according to Wheeler's, a La Quinta based market intelligence company covering the Coachella Valley economy and demographics.

While the regional housing market has slowed considerably from its recent peak years of 2004 and 2005, the company continues to grow rapidly and even sees this period of market sluggishness as a perfect opportunity to introduce the newly branded entity to the region. "Market corrections provide the opportunity to fine tune the management of your company and nurture the important relationships with your clients," adds Harebottle. "In this case, the current situation has provided a great opportunity for us to concentrate on re-branding the company to showcase our full scope of products and services."

Teserra will continue to be one of the largest employers in the region with more than 550 staff serving an expanding Southern California clientele. "Many of our staff professionals have been with us in this business for decades which means they really understand the art and science of creating a beautiful outdoor space," says Harebottle. As part of this expansion, Teserra has opened an office in Beaumont and is expanding its offerings to the Temecula, Corona and Orange County coastal area. The expansion beyond the valley has come as a response to the company's homebuilder clients that have requested that Teserra work with them on other Southern California developments, thus displaying a high degree of confidence in the quality of work and reliability that Teserra brings to the table.

Teserra will continue to keep its same business phone numbers and business address. Customers will continue to enjoy the same warranty agreements and level of customer service they've come to expect from the team of professionals.

"The good news is that we're continuing to do all the terrific work we're known for with the same leadership and professional staff," Harebottle adds. "And now we have a brand that captures the full scope of what we offer to customers."

HISPANIC OUTLOOK MAGAZINE NAMES CAL STATE SAN BERNARDINO A 'PUBLISHER'S PICK'

California State University, San Bernardino was again named a "Publisher's Pick" for 2006 by Hispanic Outlook in Education magazine and recognized as one of the top 100 universities in the nation for graduating Hispanics.

"We're pleased to receive this distinction from Hispanic Outlook in Education magazine. It's a recognition for our university's commitment to diversity and helping students succeed academically and after they graduate and take their places in society," said CSUSB President Albert Karnig.

Cal State San Bernardino was one of 19 campuses from the California State University system to be recognized by the magazine. Hispanic Outlook's Publisher's Picks is an annual national list of colleges and universities that the publication sees as having solid records in recruiting, enabling and graduating Hispanic students. The standings are based on data from the National Center for Education Statistics as well as formal and informal inquiries.

Recently, the university also received the "Best in the West" designation by the Princeton Review and was ranked by U.S. News & World Report as 61st in the west in its annual "America's Best Colleges Guide" of colleges and universities in the Western United States. In addition, CSUSB was ranked fourth in the nation for graduate entrepreneurship in a survey of more than 700 collegiate entrepreneurship programs released by The Princeton Review and Entrepreneur magazine.

The other CSU campuses named by Hispanic Outlook were Bakersfield, Chico, Dominguez Hills, East Bay, Fresno, Fullerton, Long Beach, Los Angeles, Monterey Bay, Northridge, Pomona, Sacramento, San Diego, San Francisco, San Jose, San Luis Obispo, San Marcos and Stanislaus.

The federal government has recognized Cal State San Bernardino as a Hispanic Serving Institution, a reflection of its Hispanic enrollment of nearly 35 percent from a total student body of more than 16,400. Academically, Cal State San Bernardino offers two concentrations and a minor in ethnic studies and in liberal studies in the field of Chicano/Latino studies that focuses on language, history, politics, economics, education, immigration and the impact of Chicanos/Latinos in the United States for a broader appreciation of its contributions to modern-day society.

Cal State San Bernardino provides a major economic boost for the Inland region, contributing $532 million in expenditures to California's economy, supporting more than 10,000 jobs in the state and producing more than $625 million to the state economy from alumni earnings. Cal State San Bernardino also generates more than $28 million in taxes and for every $1 the state invests in the university, CSUSB generates nearly $5 in additional community spending.

"SAFE RIDE HOME" PROGRAM OFFERED AGAIN THIS HOLIDAY SEASON

Free, one-way taxi cab transportation is once again being offered to desert cities residents who might otherwise risk driving home "under the influence" after holiday celebrations. The successful "Safe Ride Home" public safety program, launched valley-wide during last year's Christmas and New Year's holiday season, is a concerted effort to raise community awareness about the dangers of drunk driving and to reduce DUI related crashes and deaths.

Anyone who lives in the Coachella Valley is eligible to participate in the program, whether the individual is a full time or part time resident. Five taxi companies will be participating this year:

A Valley Cabousine: 340-5845

Airport Taxi: 862-9000

ClassiCab: 322-3111

Mirage Taxi: 322-2008

USA Taxi: 416-1200

The "Safe Ride Home" program will have two schedules of operation:

- Beginning 5pm on Saturday, December 23rd through 11:59pm Monday, December 25th
- Beginning 5pm Saturday, December 30th through 11:59pm January 1, 2007

The program will provide a free transportation alternative for residents who need a ride home. Individuals can request the confidential service by calling the cab companies directly. Cab drivers record destination and cost information on voucher slips for reimbursement by the Walter Clark Legal Group of Palm Desert. Rides are provided only to an individual's residence, not to other drinking establishments.

During last year's holiday season, the first year of the "Safe Ride Home" program, there were fewer DUI cases reported in the Coachella Valley than previous years. "Clearly, the Safe Ride Home program has been a great success," says attorney Walter Clark.

The "Safe Ride Home" program is underwritten by the Walter Clark Legal Group of Palm Desert and coordinated through the Coachella Valley Taxi Owners Association.

DESERT AD AGENCY SENDS A MESSAGE OF "HOPE"

After ABC sitcom star George Lopez agreed to become the host of the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic golf tournament, the marketing committee of the valley's largest PGA Golf Tournament and charity event set out to find an advertising agency.

Kaminsky Productions, headquartered in Cathedral City, was chosen to create a strategic marketing plan designed to help sell the tickets and build awareness of the almost $2 million dollars the event raises to benefit 30 local charities.

"The addition of George Lopez triggered the decision to hire a professional marketing communications firm," said Greg Helm, board director Bob Hope Chrysler Classic marketing committee. "I've spent thirty years in the ad industry in San Francisco and Los Angeles and the Kaminsky people are as good as they come."

Kaminsky, the only local ad agency with an in-house sound stage, produced TV, radio, print and billboards for the event as well as specialized media, such as web site multimedia elements and pole wraps at the Palm Springs airport.

"We feel very honored to have been chosen to contribute to such a highly prestigious PGA event," said Gene Turner, Kaminsky's communications director. "It's such a valley tradition and such a great contributor to our valley charities. It's wonderful to be working on a campaign that has Hope written all over it."

Kaminsky Productions is a full-service agency providing fully integrated marketing communications programs as well as boutique services from research and strategic planning to advertising, interactive media and public relations services.

Time management tips for busy professionals

By Sandra J. Carroll

What exactly does the term Time Management mean? Books have been written, theories studied, and systems developed to help us better manage our precious time, and you may have read about or tried some of these ideas. I have not made a new discovery on how to stretch time, or developed a new way to manipulate time. I do believe that time management is simply a matter of making the decision to set priorities, and focus your efforts towards those goals. These could be long-term goals, or merely daily priorities. If you decide and commit to the things you want to get done, you will be able to make the time available to do them. Time management is a mindset.

So, stop looking for that time to get this or that done; you will never find it, because it is not lost; you are living it. In order to make better use of the time you have to achieve your goals, and feel more productive, there are a just few basic principles to master.

First, you need to be able to recognize what is important to you, and understand the difference between important and urgent.

Important tasks: Help us achieve long-term goals, or have other long-term significance.

Urgent tasks: May need immediate attention to avoid a crisis, but are not necessarily important in the long-term.

Make the following 5 time management strategies into habits and you will begin to see your productivity increase and the chaos decrease.

1. Set your priorities: Write down your goals, and don't be vague. Be very specific with what you want, when you want it, and the steps you need to take to get there. Break your goal down to manageable chunks, and give yourself specific tasks to achieve each step.

2. Make lists: Limit your daily to-do list to 6 items or less. If you list is too long, you will feel defeated when you are unable to complete it. Prioritize the items on your list and try to devote 80% of your time and energy on the important tasks. Of course, there will be some days that nothing important gets done, because the urgent items dominate.

3. Eliminate distractions: People, phones, clutter, hunger, e-mails, you name it; they can eat up entire workdays. Be aware of what your distractions are and learn to filter them out. Take care of necessary details before you sit down to start a project, and remember the important vs. urgent rule.

4. Schedule time for planning: Develop the habit of planning for tomorrow, the night before. Take a few minutes to clean up your work area, make your to-do list, bringing forward any tasks that did not get completed, and mentally prepare for the next day. Your subconscious will help organize your thoughts while you sleep. To quote Alan Lakein, "Failing to plan is planning to fail."

5. Use some kind of calendar, day planner or PDA: Find a format that suits your work style and make using it a habit.

It comes back to priorities again. What is important to you? Have a very clear understanding of your priorities, not only for a particular day, but also for the long-term. Create the space and time to achieve your goals, and understand that there is never time enough to do everything, and that is OK.

"Creating an Empire, ESPN"

In 1978, when Stuart Evey, then a top executive for Getty Oil, heard the pitch for funding a new cable network from Bill Rasmussen, a former play-by-play announcer for a minor league hockey team, he had good reason to be skeptical. An all sports network whose programming would consist of events like slow pitch softball, Australian Rules Rugby, and day-old college football games that couldn't make it on to the major networks? It shouldn't have been a tough call. Eight other companies had already said no.

Not that there would be many viewers anyway. The three broadcast networks controlled more than 90% of TV viewing, and considered the public's appetite for viewing sports so small as to be worth just a combined 18 hours per week of national sports programming. The cable industry's four million subscribers, scattered among 40 independent cable companies, was considered a rounding error in the Nielsen ratings.

But Stuart Evey said yes, and the rest, as they say, is history. But it's history of a most remarkable and dramatic sort, and a history, at least of the early years, that has until now gone largely unreported. Evey's life at the helm of ESPN plunged him into a world of intrigue, backroom negotiations, and duels with executives at Getty, the major networks, and Hollywood studios.

Runway safety and airport operations: are you responsible?

By John D. Goetz, Esq. and Dana Baiocco, Esq.

Runway safety and airport operations are topics that have been increasingly in the news, especially with the tragic Comair ground crash in Lexington. There are several other examples of runway and ground incursions at "Class B" and county airports, including near collisions, touch-downs on taxi-ways, and other incidents caused by ambiguity, confusion, inattentiveness, plain fatigue, or a combination thereof.

As business jet travel continues to make a dramatic rise across the country, substantially increasing traffic at county and non-towered airports, there should be a heightened awareness of runway safety and airport operations. Some commentators suggest that the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) should take additional regulatory action to increase safety in take-offs, landings, and ground operations. One suggestion is that the FAA require installation of airport systems that provide direct and audible warnings to pilots in the cockpit of impending safety hazards. The pros and cons of this suggestion and others are debatable. And, time will likely pass before the FAA takes any formal steps.

To keep airport ground operations running safely and smoothly, it takes a coordinated effort between aircraft owners and operators, airport authorities and air traffic controllers, and even aviation manufacturers. Thus, if you fit into one of these categories, you should be aware that there are hidden pitfalls that may expose you to liability if your aircraft is involved in a ground incident. Here is some food for thought.

If you own or lease an aircraft, you should review your documentation to evaluate whether you are obligated to maintain operational control of the aircraft during flight. Many times, owners and lessors of aircraft assume that the pilot and only the pilot has operational control. While that may be practically true, if you find yourself in litigation following an accident or incident, you might very well find yourself subject to judgment depending upon your contractual obligations.

If you are the operator of the aircraft, you should take steps to ensure that you are operating above the minimum standards set by the FAA. While these standards may protect you from violating the conditions of your certificate, they will not necessarily protect you in litigation where the common law standards of care are not only different, they can be quite higher.

An airport authority also has responsibility for maintaining the facility and keeping the runways clear of obstructions. In the same way, controllers also have the demanding job of keeping traffic organized and scheduled. Like operators, however, in litigation, the FAA rules and regulations may provide you with some defensive points. But, make no mistake: juries may not be so understanding in assessing fault after an accident has occurred.

From the aviation manufacturer's standpoint, while some runway incidents are a result of human error, in litigation, a manufacturer might find itself subject to liability for failing to design, manufacture or install a device that would prevent such collisions. Juries tend to believe that, in this day and age, manufacturers should be able to design the most sophisticated equipment to protect passengers from all aspects of human error, and under all conceivable circumstances. While this issue generates many emotions on both sides of the debate, you do not want to be in high-stakes litigation when the debate comes to fruition.
