

ALERT

OCTOBER 2017

Texas Medical Board Releases Proposed Rules to Implement New Telemedicine Law

The Texas Medical Board ("TMB") recently released proposed rules to implement Senate Bill 1107, which became law in May 2017 and allows for physician-patient relationships to be created solely through the provision of telemedicine services.

As required by the new statute, the rulemaking eliminates the TMB's earlier requirements that telemedicine services for new patients be provided at an established medical site with a "patient site presenter." Instead, the proposed rules create the same standard of care for telemedicine services as exists for in-person services. Also, the provider is required to establish a practitioner-patient relationship, maintain complete and accurate medical records, and implement adequate measures to ensure that communications are protected consistent with state and federal privacy laws. The rulemaking is less specific than the statute in terms of how a practitioner provides care through telemedicine technology and did not offer additional details on how to establish a practitioner-patient relationship through telemedicine.

The statute required that the TMB, Texas Board of Nursing, Texas Physician Assistant Board, and Texas State Board of Pharmacy jointly adopt rules regarding the determination of valid prescriptions. The TMB proposes creating the same standard for the validity of a telemedicine prescription as applies to an in-person service prescription. Notably, the proposed rules allow for telemedicine treatment of acute pain with scheduled drugs but do not allow for treatment of chronic pain with scheduled drugs. The TMB states that chronic pain "needs to be treated but must be balanced with concerns over patient safety and the public health crisis involving overdose deaths." Although the proposed rules do not specifically address the Texas Prescription Monitoring Program ("PMP"), if the rules take effect, it would be prudent for telemedicine providers to review PMP data for certain acute pain prescriptions to evaluate whether the patient has previously received medication from a different provider for the same condition.

The proposed rulemaking includes two notice requirements not required by statute. First, the rule proposes that telemedicine providers must notify patients of the physician's privacy practices before evaluation or treatment. "In addition, a good faith effort must be made to obtain the patient's written or electronic acknowledgement, including by e-mail, of the notice." Second, patients must be informed of how they may file a complaint with the TMB.

Telemedicine providers may wish to comment on the lack of specificity in the rulemaking in terms of how telemedicine services are to be rendered. Providers should also consider whether the limitations on scheduled drug prescriptions are appropriate. To comment, submit feedback to Rita Chapin, P.O. Box 2018, Austin, Texas 78768-2018 or rules.development@tmb.state.tx.us. Feedback must be submitted by October 13, 2017, to be considered at the TMB's October 19, 2017 meeting.

For more information on Senate Bill 1107, please read our Digital Health Legal article.

---

CONTACTS

Todd P. Kelly
Dallas

Alexis S. Gilroy
Washington

Courtney A. Carrell
Dallas

---

SUBSCRIBE

SUBSCRIBE TO RSS

---

Jones Day is a legal institution with more than 2,500 lawyers on five continents. We are One Firm Worldwide<sup>SM</sup>.

Internal Disclaimer: The contents of this document are proprietary to Jones Day. This publication should be treated as confidential and should not be duplicated or shared with persons outside Jones Day.

Disclaimer: Jones Day publications should not be construed as legal advice on any specific facts or circumstances. The contents are intended for general information purposes only and may not be quoted or referred to in any other publication or proceeding without the prior written consent of the Firm, to be given or withheld at our discretion. To request reprint permission for any of our publications, please use our "Contact Us" form, which can be found on our website at www.jonesday.com. The mailing of this publication is not intended to create, and receipt of it does not constitute, an attorney-client relationship. The views set forth herein are the personal views of the authors and do not necessarily reflect those of the Firm.

© 2017 Jones Day. All rights reserved. 51 Louisiana Avenue, N.W., Washington D.C. 20001-2113

To unsubscribe from our emails, please click here.