The Climate Report

Examining regulatory, litigation, and transactional legal issues related to government and industry response to climate change in the United States and in many jurisdictions worldwide on a quarterly basis since 2009.

LAWYER SPOTLIGHT

Jane Borthwick Story

As environmental, health, and safety compliance requirements increase in complexity, it's more critical than ever for businesses to stay in line with industry regulations to protect their workers and the public. Jane Story, a partner in Jones Day's Government Regulation Practice, advises clients on a diverse range of compliance and regulatory matters, including management of removal and remedial actions at Superfund sites, defending against federal and state enforcement actions for alleged violations of environmental law, and environmental reporting requirements and options for voluntary self-disclosure.

Her active litigation practice includes representing clients in Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act cases, addressing issues such as the scope of arranger liability and the intricacies of cost recovery versus contribution claims. She also analyzes and manages risks associated with environmental liabilities in business transactions, assisting clients with environmental due diligence and developing options for management of material liabilities.

Jane is located in the Firm's Pittsburgh Office. She sits on the Council of the Environment and Energy Law Section of the Allegheny County Bar Association, where she currently chairs the Section's CLE programming. She is also a member of the Section of Environment, Energy, and Resources of the American Bar Association and the Environmental and Energy Law Section of the Pennsylvania Bar Association.
